Auto Parade and Three Meetings Fill Out Day-Throat Specialist Is Wanted.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 4.-Three pulmeetings, with an automobile arade, a luncheon and a public recomprised the programme ere to-day of the forty women Republican campaign speakers who arrived early this morning on the 'Hughes Special" on their transcontinental trip.

The train came from Cleveland and departs at 4 o'clock for Detroit.

A large committee of women met the visitors at the station.

At least three things are worrying the fair spellbinders. One is that so many think their trip is in aid of Woman Suffrage; another that so many ask them, "What would Mr. down weight. They get little chance to exercise, and are being fed many reakfasts, luncheons and dinners, One woman admitted she had six meals in one day, and feared she soon would be unable to wear her clothes, The speakers are suffering so from weakened voices they have wired for woman throat specialist to join them in Chicago and continue to the Coast. She will be a woman able to nake speeches, too. Yesterday's trip, which began at Annie Peck, noted mountain climber, began to tell why she'd vote for him if she could. Miss Peck admitted it was to steep for her.

Cleve and's Four Hundred turned

Mrs. Myron T. Herrick, wife of the former Ambassador to France, was Chairman of the local committee. President Charles F. Thwing of Western Reserve University, and Lomar Heman, Director of Public Service, who acted for Mayor Davis, introduced the speakers. Miss Davis, Mrs. O'Snaurhnessy, Miss Antin and Mrs. Demorest spoke.

Every Woman a Jill the Giant-Killer In War on the Two-Headed Monster 'High Cost of Living,' 'Improper Food'

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

The modern American woman must be Jill the Giant Killer. For a Hughes have done?" The third is horrible two-headed monster confronts her. One head which she ought that many will be unable to keep to cut off is named "High Cost of Living." The other is "Improper and insufficient Food." Unless she slays the giant, one head or the other will destroy her husband, her children, herself. That domestic war is now upon us, even if we escape every other. And the American wife and mother who doesn't win her own private battle with the giant-well, she is a failure, in the opinion of Mrs. Annie Nathan Meyer, Chairman of the Committee on Home Economics of the National Special Aid Society. According to the report of the Adjutant General for 1915. the total applicants for the army were 168,842. Of these 45,111 were accepted and 123,731 rejected because they were not up to the mark physically. This is the largest percentage of rejections in any nation. "I don't say that the American woman is responsible for the high cost of living, although it has been said often enough. But she certainly shares in the responsibility, and now that the problem is here she must solve it or run away from it. It is up to her to make a dollar do a dollar's work, instead of asking her husband for two dollars in place of the one he has been in the habit of giving her. The American woman is the most wasteful in the world.

"The trouble with her is that she doesn't KNOW. She goes downtown and says innocently and sweetly. Is this linen? Is this steak tender? Are your chickens good to-day? Her own eyes and the knowledge of a few simple tests should give her the answers to these questions. Do you know that every time I go to a new butcher, I have to teach him to send me the head and fest of a chicken? I pay for it all, yet I don't get it because the average woman doesn't know that, properly prepared, these parts have real food value.

Father gave a birthday party at the club in my honor and Miss Connell was present and father took us all home in his automobile." A woman artist known the country over was speaking to me the other day of the need for such lectures as I have planned. I nearly starved this summer at a boarding house in the Adirondacks, she explained. 'One day I was with the proprietress when she purchased a delicious reast for $3.75. I thought that for ence I should be well fed. She took the reast home, put it in the oven until it was seared, then cut off slices and fried them!' Did you ever hear of any more preposterous way of ruining good meat?" questioned Mrs. Meyer, with frank contempt. In the summer of 1915, the daugh-ter declared, Miss Connell and her father accompanied her to Boston and party stayed at the Copley-Plaza Miss Conneil and Miss Lyon occupied the same room.
